

At last! Progress on Foley Park

Foley Park in need of repair - November 2005.

Following its adoption of the Plan of Management prepared for Foley Park in September 2005, the City of Sydney has recently engaged ASPECT Landscape Architecture and Urban Design, Sydney, to prepare the design for Stage 1 of the Foley Park works.

Their website, www.aspect.net.au, states that ASPECT is "a group of design studios delivering innovative leading edge landscape architecture and urban design, both within Australia and internationally". ASPECT's Sydney studio is in Surry Hills.

Construction work on Foley Park is scheduled to begin at the end of this year, with $2 million allocated over the next three years for implementation of the Master Plan. In this regard we are advised that Kate Luckraft is leading ASPECT's design team. Their first site appraisal visit is scheduled for 23 March.

Council recommended that our three issues of concern with the Plan (see Bulletin 8/2005, p3) be considered at the design development stage, and we hope to have discussions with ASPECT in the near future.

With the help of International Architectural Platform Australia, ASPECT has recently won a major $4.5 million design project to create a park in Foshan in China's Guangdong Province near Guangzhou - 12 times larger than Sydney's Hyde Park.

ASPECT's Director, Sasha Coles, said that "The park project in Foshan was an international competition which we entered. We competed against firms from Germany, Japan, a couple of multinational offices based in Hong Kong and two teams from China".

Other awards won by ASPECT are:

The 2005 NSW Awards for Design in Landscape Architecture: two Commendation Awards for -

- An Eventful Path, prepared for the Sydney Olympic Park Authority; and
- Marine Biological Station Park, prepared for the Sydney Harbour Federation Trust.

The 2004 Australian Institute of Landscape Architects New South Wales Awarded -

- Merit Award For Wollondilly Vision 2025, prepared for the Wollondilly Shire Council; and
- Commendation for Planning in Landscape Architecture for the Epping Rail Line Surface Works Urban Design Guidelines, prepared for the Transport Infrastructure Development Corporation.

Glebe's Historical Waterfront

The Glebe Society's contribution to the 2006 Heritage Festival will be an illustrated talk by Max Solling, OAM, focusing on the magnitude of our past industrial enterprises.

Date: Wednesday 5 April, 7.30 for 8pm. Venue: The Hall, St Scholastica's College, 4 Avenue Road, Glebe.

For more details see the booking form included in this Bulletin.

“The Australian National Anthem”

Glebe Society member Lydia Bushell found a typed copy of this National Anthem among her father-in-law’s papers. Joseph Spencer Bushell served at Gallipoli, where he lost an eye. In spite of this injury, he later served in France.

*Fellers of Australia,
Blokes an’ coves an’ coots,
Shift yer ----- carcasses,
Move yer ----- boots.
Gird yer ----- loins up,
Get yer ----- gun,
Set the ----- enemy,
And watch the ----- run.*
*****

*When the ----- bugle,
Sounds “Ad ----- vance”,
Don’t be like a flock of sheep,
In a ----- trance.
Biff the ----- foeman,
Where it don’t agree,
Spifler ----- cate him,
To Eternity.*
*****

Chorus
*Git a ----- move on,
Have some ----- sense,
Learn the ----- art,
Of self de ----- fence.*
*****
*Have some ----- brains,
Beneath yer ----- lids,
And swing a ----- sabre,
Fer the missus an’ the kids.
Chuck supportin’ ----- posts,
An’ strikin’ ----- lights,
Support a ----- family an’,
Strike fer yer ----- rights.*
*****

*Fellers of Australier,
Cobbers, chaps an’ mates,
Hear the ----- enemy,
Kickin’ at the gates!
Blow the ----- bugle,
Beat the ----- drum,
Uppercut the ----- cow,
To Kingdom ----- come.*
*****
Chorus
*Git a ----- move on,
Have some ----- sense,
Learn the ----- art,
Of self de ----- fence.*

What a search of the Web reveals ...

I looked up “Fellers of Australia” on Google. The second item on the list gave me just the information I needed. The anthem was originally written by C J Dennis.

- Editor

“... Den’s [C.J. Dennis’s] chief claim to fame at first was that he was the author of the Austrabloodylaise, a vernacular piece known far and wide in Australia, of which the opening stanza gives the flavour:

Fellers of Australia, blokes and coves and coots,

Pull yer bloody pants on, tie yer bloody boots.

But he was then deep in the planning of a volume, The Sentimental Bloke, which was to bring him wide fame and an honoured place in Australian poetry. Meanwhile Den filled in as a civil servant complete with two-inch starched collar and vest slip, an effect quite unsuited to his bony-nosed Roman face.”

From Low’s Autobiography by David Low, Michael Joseph 1956, pp78-79

ANZAC Day Service

Every year since 1994, when the Diggers’ Memorial in Foley Park was partially restored, Glebe has honoured ANZAC Day with a service in front of the Memorial.

The tradition continues this year. Everyone is invited to come to the 7.30am service on Tuesday 25 April.

If you have a rosemary bush, please bring some sprigs for others to wear. If you don’t have a rosemary bush, bring a small posy to place on the steps of the Memorial. Gumnuts or other Australian natives would be good.

Ring Max Solling, 9660 1160, if you would like more information.

Walter Burley Griffin Incinerator, Forsyth Street

The Glebe Society Heritage Subcommittee is planning a public inspection in June of the recently restored Walter Burley Griffin Incinerator.

The Inspection will involve the Walter Burley Griffin Society, landscape architects and others showing what has been achieved and possible future uses.

Look out for more information in future Bulletins or contact David Mander-Jones on 9552 4172 for more information.

Light Rail

On Tuesday 7 March I attended the Light Rail Seminar conducted by Sydney University. The talk was given by Graham Currie who is a great supporter of light rail if it is seen holistically within the total public transport scheme of Sydney. His approach was supporting his findings with solid research and not on anecdotal “feel good” perceptions of people.

His presentation, which is very accessible and understandable in spite of being some 50 pages, is available on our website

For interpretation or further information, speak to me or Chris Hallam, the Glebe Society Traffic and Transport Convenor.

It is anticipated that there will other transport seminars in the future.

Heritage Development Control Plan Questionnaire

Enclosed with this Bulletin is a copy of a questionnaire distributed at the workshop conducted by the Sydney City Council on 21 March. Interested members should complete the form and return it to the Council by 13 April.

Crown Land in Forest Lodge

On Alfred Road in Forest Lodge there is a piece of land covered in trees which is crown land. However it is currently fenced off and looks as though it belongs to the large block of units at 77 Hereford Street.

A problem exists because a small triangular block of land was acquired by the Department of Main Roads around the 1960s when Glebe was threatened by freeway plans.

For nearly thirty years the Owners Corporation of No. 77 has had permissive occupancy of the land. It has paid the rent and rates, taxes, water, power, fencing, lighting, tree services, mowing and gardening and has received the benefit of the use of the land. The neighbourhood has also benefited from the land through the presence of eleven mature trees, with much birdlife, and resultant improved environmental health.

In October 2004 the Department of Lands wrote to the Owners Corporation stating that they wanted to sell the land, which is zoned residential. The Owners Corporation has been invited to buy the land or continue the lease at market rental, but does not have the means to do so.

The Owners Corporation has had meetings about the land with our Member of

Parliament, Sandra Nori, and communication with Sydney City Council. The Lord Mayor has asked her officers to investigate the possibility of acquisition of the land as public open space. Both the Glebe Society and the Glebe Chamber of Commerce support the idea of public open space use of the land, but it is by no means certain that the Council will see fit to acquire it. Sandra Nori also supports use of the land for public open space.

The current position

The Department of Lands has just written (received mid March 2006) that they have not heard from the Lord Mayor about the public open space issue and will sell the land in late April/early May, which is earlier than previously advised. If you are concerned about the loss forever of this open space and would like to write in support of it not being used for yet more residential development, with the inevitable loss of several large trees, please contact:

- a) Tony Kelly, Minister for Lands, Level 34, Governor Macquarie Tower, 1 Farrer Place, Sydney 2000, tel: 9228 3999, fax: 9228 3988, email: tony.kelly@lands.nsw.gov.au. Ask him not to sell the land for development or at least to delay the sale; and
- b) Clover Moore, Lord Mayor of Sydney, Sydney Town Hall, 483 George Street, Sydney 2000, tel: 9265 9229, fax: 9265 9328, email: cmoore@cityofsydney.nsw.gov.au. Ask her to buy the land for public open space.

Launch of Save Sydney Harbour Campaign

More than 150 people were at the official launch of Save Sydney Harbour on Saturday, 11 March 2006.

From the vantage point of Observatory Hill, looking West over Darling Harbour towards Glebe, Pyrmont and Balmain, the gathering heard speakers Tom Uren, Phil Jenkyn (Protectors of Public Land, Marcelle Hoff (City of Sydney Councillor), Barry O'Keefe (Chair, The National Trust NSW), Robert Coombs (Maritime Union of Aust) and Harold Kerr (the Save Sydney Harbour Convenor) condemn plans to close down the working Harbour. Fears were expressed that 90 hectares of Sydney Harbour land are at stake.

At the end of the meeting, the following resolutions were passed unanimously:

That the NSW government

1. Forego its published intentions for the re-development of Sydney's irreplaceable commercial port land;

2. Assure that this commercial port land remains under public ownership in perpetuity and acknowledge that long term leases are a de-facto loss of ownership;
3. Secure Sydney's commercial port and ongoing role as a working harbour with the retention of current trades;
4. Ensure that there is genuine transparent and democratic consultation encompassing all stakeholders regarding the future use of any commercial port land;
5. Involve the City of Sydney Council as the primary representative of the people of the city in the planning for the future of the Darling Harbour Wharves, Millers Point; and

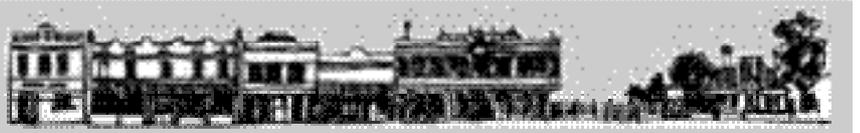

6. Declare publicly that it has not entered into any commitments or contractual arrangements of any kind in relation to the future use or development of the Darling Harbour, White Bay or Glebe Island wharves.

The meeting called upon Premier Iemma to receive a delegation from the Save Sydney Harbour campaign to be briefed in detail on the specifics and sentiments disclosed by the meeting.

The rally and its media reporting have had one immediate success - the agreement by the new Minister for Ports, Joe Tripodi, to meet with representatives of the campaign.

The Website for Save Sydney Harbour is www.savesydneyharbour.com.au.

There are no important new DAs to report on. Hence this month's report is devoted to the Community Forum and Urban Design Study held in Glebe Town Hall on Monday, 6 March. One of the items was a report by the Manager of Planning Assessments, Giovanni Cirillo, on the status of current DAs.

Community Forum

This followed the established format of conversations between residents, Councillors and Council Staff held on the ground floor of the Town Hall, followed by a brief overview of the rest of the evening by the Lord Mayor in the Main Hall upstairs. All the presentations took place upstairs.

As mentioned above, Giovanni Cirillo reported on current DAs. He was followed by Alan Cadogan, Manager Project Development, who reported on Local Action Plan Studies. LAPS are about establishing resident perceptions, finding out what they would like to see improved, and then drawing up plans to achieve the improvements. The team obtained residents' views through a variety of sources, including a household survey that achieved an astonishing 5,000 responses, meetings, resident organisations and focus groups. Plans include short term achievable ones such as street lighting, longer term ones such as revitalisation of Glebe Point Road, St Johns Road and Ross Street, and those over which Council does not have complete control, such as extension of Light Rail to the Quay (Committee members please note!).

Urban Design Study

This was the major part of the evening, and it was introduced by the Director of the consultancy firm, Cite Urban Strategies, Debra Berkout, followed by Catherine Hart, Director of Strategic Planning and Lynne Hancock, Associate Director. Those who attended the December workshop will remember all these people, and part of Lynne's presentation was to review the resident response obtained then. I will conflate what they said to save space and avoid repetition.

The key to the Design Study is its empiricism. It is based on a very close study of existing conditions (ie actual floor space ratio and site coverage) and a classification of all existing buildings (contributory, neutral, detracting). This has given rise to very detailed maps, and opens up entirely new possibilities, such as replacing blanket controls with precinct specific controls.

For the first time in Glebe they are proposing single storey limits in appropriate areas, and height limits in metres as well as for the number of storeys. They are looking at reducing the amount of site coverage where buildings are bulkier, varying density according to what exists in each precinct, and adjusting the boundaries of those precincts to reflect actual land use and building type.

As well as identifying areas of high conservation value, there are also areas with a distinctive neighbourhood character. The study also recognizes the varying character of different sections of Glebe Point Road

All this reminds me of the work done by the Society in the 1970s. It is very different from the approach in Leichhardt's LEP 2000, which in nine years did less research than this group has done in four months, and based its controls largely on ideology, ignoring any inconvenient facts. The present Study is a very exciting and original process, and one in which they seek to involve the whole community: there is a form to express your views available from Council's website and from the One Stop Shop.

The Planning subcommittee will have an informal meeting to discuss what to include in its submission on Thursday, 30 March from 6pm in the Roxbury, corner of St Johns Road and Forest Street. We expect there will be a further report in April.

Included with this Bulletin is a questionnaire from the Heritage Workshop of 21 March that you might like to fill in and return to the City (or Glebe Town Hall).

- Neil Macindoe

BASIX Explained

The Glebe Society Planning Subcommittee has invited Andrew Thomas, Manager Strategic Planning at the City of Sydney, to make a presentation on BASIX, the NSW Government's guidelines for sustainable building.

The presentation will be at 6pm on Monday, 15 May, in the Community Room at Benledi. Light refreshments will be served. All members are welcome, free of charge, and we will invite other community groups in Glebe as well.

Look out for more information next month.

Sandstone kerbing - good enough for developer by not for Council?

Over the past couple of years I watched the Australand development at the bottom of our street (Ferry Road) evolve from a construction site into habitable apartments. Generally we locals were not impressed - who would pay couple of million for one of those flats when they could buy a restored Victorian terrace almost as close to Blackwattle Bay for half the price?

But one thing did impress me: generally the kerbs were sandstone (as shown in this picture). And when I looked closer, I discovered that nearby kerbs reinstated by the City Council were concrete. As the local folklore is that Council uses sandstone where possible, I raised this apparent anomaly with the Town Hall and a local councillor. Some months later I am still waiting for a response.

Dining out in Glebe

The new restaurant at 99 Glebe Point Road, a'Mews, that I reviewed in the December Bulletin is reviewed in the Good Living section of the Herald on 7 March and received 14/20. Remember, you read it first in the Bulletin!

Also, it has a cheap midweek special, as does the other top Glebe restaurant, Atelier. Both are excellent value, so if you dine out once or twice a week, try to make it midweek at one or other of these two. If you can't cook, you can always try one of the others as well.

- Neil Macindoe

Glebe Greeting Cards

Lisa Campano, a resident of Glebe for 38 years, has produced a series of ten greeting cards which are now on sale. They are available for $5 each from the Glebe Point Newsagency, near Wigram Road, but can be obtained by Glebe Society members at the special price of $4 per card or $36 for the entire series.

Contact Lisa on (02)9660 2968 or at jorgelisa50@hotmail.com for more details.

We have a new Neighbourhood Services Manager

We welcome Baharak Sahebekhtiari, who is our new Neighbourhood Services Manager at Glebe Town Hall. She replaces Nick Hespe, who filled the gap so well after Jenny Underwood left.

Baharak's contact details, which are also shown on the back page, are

Phone: 9298 3191, Fax: 9298 3199

Annual Glebe Art Competition

The Glebe Art Competition is held every year at Benledi (184 Glebe Point Road) and the adjacent Glebe Library. Local residents are encouraged to contribute their artworks. In 2005 well over 200 entries were received for this 10-day event, which now includes contributions from Pymont and Ultimo artists, following our 2003 transfer to the City of Sydney, which generously provides the $3,000 first prize.

This year marks the 9th art competition. The opening and awarding of prizes will be held on Friday 30 June at 6pm at Benledi. The exhibition will continue every day until 9 July.

For those intending to enter the competition, entry forms will be available in early May from Glebe Library and these will provide further information for potential exhibitors. There is a $15 entry fee.

Any other enquiries should be directed to the Library on 9298 3060.

- Cynthia Jones

The Friends of Benledi and Glebe Library will be busy

The "Friends," in conjunction with the Glebe Library, are intending to start a free Book Group, which will be launched at their AGM on Wednesday, 17 May, at 7pm.

If you are interested in joining the Book Group, please fill in the form which is enclosed with this Bulletin, and take it to the Library. Or you could pass the form on to a friend who enjoys reading.

The annual Book Fair, run by the "Friends", is on Saturday 3 June at Benledi.

Phone Ros Wheeler, 9660 7430, for further information.

News and Notes

Thirsty Thursdays

All members are invited to meet for dinner in Glebe on the first Thursday of each month, to eat and talk with other people who live in Glebe.

The next Thirsty Thursday is at La Tavolaccia Garden Restaurant, 355 Glebe Point Road (near the Toxteth Hotel) on 6 April. There is no need to book, so just turn up and BYO wine. And come again on Thursday 4 May.

Welcome to our New Member

Steven Tuttle was accepted as a member at the March Management Committee meeting. We look forward to seeing him at future Glebe Society functions.

Free Energy Efficient Light Globes

To reduce greenhouse gas emissions, energy efficient light globes are now available free to City of Sydney residents and workers for a limited time.

Compact fluorescent light globes are one of the most efficient devices for converting electricity into lighting and last eight times longer than regular light globes.

The globes are General Electric brand, produce soft white light, are available in bayonet or screw-in fittings, and packaged in boxes of five globes containing greenhouse information. Each globe is 15 watts (equivalent to a 75 watt incandescent globe, ie 80% saving).

Each box contains five globes which save around 2.4 tonnes of greenhouse gas emissions and $240 in electricity over their lifetime (as well as $15 in not needing to buy replacement light globes).

People wanting to take up the offer can obtain their free box of globes by calling into either a City of Sydney One Stop Shop or Community or Activity Centre and filling out a declaration form.

Details are also available via <http://www.cityofsydney.nsw.gov.au/environment/GreenhouseAndAirQuality/FreeLightGlobes.asp>

Locals protest "Cement Bay"

Hundreds of residents turned out at a community meeting [on Saturday 18 March] to object to a cement terminal [in White Bay].

Rozelle residents are concerned about the proposal causing major noise and air pollution problems.

Developer Independent Cement claimed the meeting was a success.

The department of Planning is accepting submissions on the proposal until April 10.

- The Glebe, 23 March, p1.

We will monitor this proposal and its potential effect on Glebe.

Vital Connections: a history of NSW Roads from 1788

This book focuses on the role of roads in the history of New South Wales from the arrival of Europeans in 1788 to the centenary of Federation in 2001, highlighting the part they have played in the State's social and economic development. It traces the remarkable achievements of road makers, engineers and bridge builders, as they coped with the extremes of the New South Wales landscape.

Available from Bookshop NSW for $49.95 + postage and handling.

From the Skies: aerial photography of Sydney in 1943

In 1943 aircraft flew at 2,600 metres over Sydney to take, for the first time, a series of photographs to aid road planning. These photos are now available on CD-ROM. Also available is a series of 10 posters showing a comparison of the 1943 photos and photos taken in 2003 for the following areas: Baulkham Hills; City of Sydney; Homebush; Maroubra; Marsfield & Macquarie Park; North Sydney; Port Botany; Strathfield; Sydney Airport and Warwick Farm.

Available from Bookshop NSW for $39.95 (CD-ROM) or $14.95 (per poster) + postage and handling
